MC Information

CAPP Completion for Spring 2018

Time is running out to complete your CAPP requirements in order to sign your spring 2018 student agreement before Institutional closings at JCTC and UofL in December. The last day to complete a CAPP requirement at a JCTC MC Office will be Dec. 14 and the last day at UofL will be Dec. 21. Schedule your appointments now on your MyMC Page, to ensure you receive a convenient appointment time. Appointment availability in November and December will be less convenient for third-shift work schedules. Contact a student development counselor with any questions.

NOTE: Beginning Jan. 2 and running through Jan. 12, opportunities to complete CAPP requirements will be limited throughout the week and most will be offered on Fridays only by appointment at the MC Downtown office.

The 2018-19 FAFSA is Now Available

The 2018-19 FAFSA is now available to complete. Go to www.fafsa.gov submit your application today! Keep in mind that you will use 2017 income tax data for this application. Metro College students who have signed at least one student agreement, must have an official and complete FAFSA in order to sign student agreements. Be sure to monitor your Student Self-Service or ULink account to complete additional steps with the Financial Aid office to prevent a delay in signing your agreement.

Spring 2018 Student Agreement Information

Once you have registered for spring 2018 classes, come into one of the MC campus offices to sign your student agreement. Student agreements must be signed prior to your school's tuition deadline in order to receive tuition deferment.

JCTC Deadline: Jan. 5

UofL Deadline: Jan. 12

Be sure your 2017-18 FAFSA is official and complete with the Financial Aid at your school. Returning MC students with outstanding checklist items will not be able to sign. In addition, returning students must be current with CAPP requirements to sign. Contact a student development counselor for details.

Check Your MyMC Messages!

Have you logged on to your MyMC Page lately? Did you know we send you messages throughout the year that serve as reminders, provide information, and identify actions you need to take to receive MC benefits?

We encourage you to check your messages at least once a week throughout the year. Now is the time to review your messages to ensure you receive your MC benefits. In addition, if you have any questions about the MC program, school, or work, you can send a student development counselor a message through the "Ask A Counselor" section. The counselors can provide you with the correct information or refer you to the appropriate department or person. Responses will be provided within one business day.

Metropolitan College Student Spotlights

Alumni Spotlight: Kevin Kester

Written by Renecia Griffie Davis

(Kevin) Kester is an accomplished founding faculty member of the Endicott College of International Studies in Daejeon, South Korea, and an international consultant to United Nations agencies. Kester has always had an interest in global affairs and international travel; he has traveled to over 40 countries and every continent. “Thanks to UPS, I could see the world,” said Kester.

Kevin Kester grew up economically deprived in London, Kentucky, a small rural town with a population of 8,157 at the time of the 2016 U.S. census, and consequently began with Metropolitan College program in the summer of 1999 (early in the program’s inception) to access tuition-free post-secondary education. Kester worked third-shift at UPS for approximately four years while maintaining a full-time course load at the University of Louisville.

Through the Metropolitan College program, Kester earned his bachelor's degree in music theory and composition from the University of Louisville in May 2004. After graduating in 2004, Kester went on to attend one of the world’s most prestigious universities, Columbia University in New York, New York, where he received a postgraduate certificate in Education and Peace Studies (2006). Kester’s other notable scholastic achievements include: Master of Arts in Peace & Conflict Studies (2007) from the United Nations University in San Jose, Costa Rica; Master of Arts in Education and International Development (2010) from University of Toronto in Toronto, Canada; and a Doctor of Philosophy in Education, Conflict and Peacebuilding (2017) from the University of Cambridge in Cambridge, England.

Kester continues to recommend the Metropolitan College program to others struggling to find a way to pay for college.

When asked in what ways has the Metropolitan College program helped you to succeed professionally, Kester answered, “It solidified my perseverance. Working third-shift for four years of university, on top of studying full-time (and attending 8 a.m. courses my Freshman year) definitely helps to build character and personal resolve. This work ethic, and the ability to juggle multiple projects simultaneously has continued to assist me in my international work.”

MC Spotlight: Alastair Smith

Written by Renecia Griffie Davis

The University of Louisville (UofL) senior Alastair Smith is an aspiring marketing student and member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity, who is passionate about sales and community service.

“I came to the University of Louisville because I heard about the Metropolitan College program and I wanted to graduate college debt free.”

Smith graduated from Oldham County High School in May 2015 with 46 dual credits from Jefferson Community and Technical College (JCTC). He earned his associate’s degree from JCTC in August 2016 and will earn his bachelor’s degree in May 2018. “I am excited to see what opportunities I will get once I graduate in May 2018,” said Smith. Smith desires to work in the sales industry in a role working directly with customers and prospects to explain product benefits and features; while also negotiating prices to close the sale.

Smith shared that one of his greatest accomplishments in life thus far has been becoming a part-time supervisor at UPS. Smith was recently promoted from package handler to part-time front line supervisor at UPS where he manages a group of 19 union employees. His team monitors and sorts packages for quality and are tasked with reducing scanning errors and increasing timely deliveries. Smith has gained valuable practical experience while working at UPS and recognizes firsthand how management theories learned from his business courses apply to the workplace.

Smith is passionate about community service and prides himself in being a people person and leader. Through his fraternity chapter, Kappa Sigma Fraternity, Smith has enjoyed and served in numerous volunteer opportunities throughout the Louisville community. “I have especially enjoyed volunteering at Wesley House Community Services,” said Smith, a non-profit organization that serves to provide affordable child care to working parents along with a number of workforce development and computer education programs to help every individual experience life more abundantly. Another cause near and dear to Smith’s heart is the RaiseRED Dance Marathon, the largest student-run philanthropy event on UofL’s campus that fund raises year-round to support the children, families, and doctors fighting pediatric cancer.

Smith admits that it can be hard to balance school and work, but he believes whole-heartedly that you can achieve anything with a high degree of self-motivation. “I’ve learned if you want to be successful you have to persevere and push through the tough times,” said Smith.

The Metropolitan College program, Smith explains, has afforded him the opportunity to graduate college debt-free, and for that, Smith is forever grateful. “I have had an overall amazing college experience that wouldn’t be possible without the help of UPS/Metropolitan College,” said Smith.
